

ABOUT GLENEAGLES KHUBCHANDANI HOSPITAL, MUMBAI

Gleneagles Khubchandani Hospital is a greenfield joint-venture project (50/50) between Koncentric Investments Ltd and Parkway Group Healthcare Pte Ltd to build a leading international-standard tertiary hospital with world-class facilities in Juhu, Andheri West, North Mumbai, India, with our local partner, Dr Prakash Khubchandani.

As at June 2011, construction work is on schedule and operations will begin in November 2012.

THE CONCEPT

This aesthetically modern hospital will encompass Parkway's standards of care, services and clinical outcomes, with advanced medical technologies.

The hospital will help enhance Parkway's presence in the Indian market, which presents great opportunities for market growth due to its large, ageing population, emerging economy, and increasing affluence. Furthermore, Mumbai is the economic hub of India, and Juhu is an affluent residential area, home to the more well-off middle-class group. It is close to Mumbai's domestic and international airports, and is a preferred destination for domestic and international tourists.

THE DESIGN

The twin-tower design of the hospital was conceived by renowned architectural firm HKS, Inc from the US. In addition to the hospital, there will be a Medical Office Building (MOB) on site.

SPECIFICATIONS

- Total number of beds: 450f
- Total number of outpatient consultation rooms: 130
- 13 operating theatres
- 3 endoscopy procedure rooms
- 2 catheterisation laboratories
- 1 interventional radiology suite

SPECIALTIES

Centres of Excellence and key specialties include: heart and vascular, general surgery, orthopaedics, neurosurgery and transplant surgery.